

Title:

Chinese art antiques - A brief bit of history

Word Count:

452

Summary:

This article is a brief description of the evolution of Chinese art and its influences.

Keywords:

Chinese art antiques tang han rare jade

Article Body:

Chinese Art

Different forms of art have been influenced by great philosophers, teachers, religious figures

Early forms of art in China were made from pottery and jade in the Neolithic period, to which

Fragments of pottery vessels dating from around the year 9000 BC found at the Xianrendong (Spi

The Xianrendong site was occupied from about 9000 BC to about 4000 BC. During this period two

Some experts believe the first true porcelain was made in the province of Zhejiang during the

During the Sui and Tang periods (581 to 906) a wide range of ceramics, low-fired and high-fired

''"They have in China a very fine clay with which they make vases which are as transparent as

Tang Sancai burial wares have become a very popular form of art. "Sancai" means three-colours.

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>