

Title:

Cut Glass And Glass Blowing History And Development

Word Count:

738

Summary:

Cut glass and glass blowing production came from ancient techniques and were gradually refined

Natural glass, like obsidian, is a dense volcanic glass, and has been used by man for millenni

Keywords:

Cut glass, glass blowing, gifts

Article Body:

Cut glass and glass blowing production came from ancient techniques and were gradually refined

Natural glass, like obsidian, is a dense volcanic glass, and has been used by man for millenni

Man-made rudimentary glass was made from silica sand, plant ash and lime. Over time it was dis

During first century BC, the craft of melting and blowing glass into useable objects was devel

Common glass normally has a greenish hue. The green tint is caused by miniscule amounts of ir

Around 1000 AD, a new development was made in glassmaking. The glass making component of soda-

During the 11th century new ways of making sheet glass came about in Germany. Glass blowers wo

Venice became the dominant center for glassmaking during the 14th century. Here new glass maki

A technique called ^the Crown glass process~ was used to make glass until the mid part of the

The Bohemian countries of Czech and Slovakia are still known today as two of the finest cut gl

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>