

Title:

Free games ~ an IT businessman's worst nightmare?

Word Count:

660

Summary:

Everyone does it and you know they do. It appeals both to students and grandma's, they are for

Keywords:

Everyone does it and you know they do. It appeals both to students and grandma's, they are for

Article Body:

Everyone does it and you know they do. It appeals both to students and grandma's, they are for

If 5 years ago you had to go through all the trouble of getting yourself a video games console

Working in an IT environment, you ~ as a business owner ~ realize that you can't control what

After working in several huge IT companies, I have noticed some interesting facts.

First, out of the 8 hour work day, only around 4-5 hours of them are actual work.

Second, it's always better to have those 4-5 actual-work-hours instead of 8 "pretend to work h

Third, people need to relax and not be glued to their PCs ~ that's when an hour of actual work

You have to remember to give your staff the freedom to plan their own time and not have them a

What I've seen in one of the companies I've worked in is that there were no outside-kitchen an

Right now at my current job we have a Nintendo Wii hooked up to a huge tele and have daily ten

So remember, games aren't that bad. They let you relax, think and overall increase your produc

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>