

Title:

Make Your Website Something Worth Coming Back To

Word Count:

532

Summary:

As I was meditating how to wrap~up this brief article, I went outside onto the patio. An eager

Keywords:

Make Your Website,website Worth Coming Back,first time visitors,reason to return,I'll never tr

Article Body:

I am no Internet ^Guru.~ I do hope that ~ if I visit your website ~ I will find 1st what I am

While this may fly in the face of many who know much more about Internet marketing than I ever

Please understand, this is my opinion only. Until and if I get some feedback to convince me ot

Anyway, I like websites that give me a reason to bookmark them. Like most surfers, I am lookin

Maybe, I am also interested in making a little ~ OR A LOT OF MONEY ~ working on my home comput

But ~ of course ~ I did. Until I finally found a couple of ^Keepers,~ I just thank heavens tha

As I was meditating how to wrap~up this brief article, I went outside onto the patio. An eager

I realised that first time visitors to many websites must feel the same way. The sparrow didn't

Isn't that exactly what many of us hope for our websites? That we make our website something w

Russ Miles is a creationist. He has created and maintains an ever evolving website <http://Mile>

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>