

Title:

Painting Throughout History

Word Count:

620

Summary:

Painting is the art of applying pigments to a surface whether it is on paper, canvas, a wall or

Keywords:

Artists, art, artist, painting, history

Article Body:

Painting is the art of applying pigments to a surface whether it is on paper, canvas, a wall or

History has allowed painting to serve a variety of functions. It was an important part of religion.

The Prehistoric times saw paintings of animals in the walls of the caves of primitive men. The

Early medieval painting is characterized by Celtic, Carolingian and Romanesque art where form

The Renaissance period put much emphasis on man and the world rather than God. High-Renaissance

Time has produced several styles, each a reflection of what happened during a certain period.

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>