At First I Didn't Believe It

I heard about the law of averages only a few weeks after I started Internet Marketing.

I was told that after I had used a certain marketing method for a few weeks, I would notice a

My personal statistics would differ, they said, depending on the quality of my page, the attraction

This is what they told me, but I didn't believe them. I was told that for my webpage, 400 visits

I remade my web page. Not once, but three times. No difference. The only way you can fail is by

Then I Saw It Working

After several months (it seemed like forever) I started noticing a few profit days each month.

Silly me, I never thought about looking at my webpage visits in relation to my sales. Sure enough
Wah-Lah! I was in profit mode!

This One Concept Could Ensure Your Success

Now I know this doesn't seem logical, but it really does work. If you will simply believe this
