Car leasing may be a good option for those individuals or companies that want to have a new car. There is a deposit associated with car leasing. This initial deposit is non-refundable and is required. Leasing a car is not the same as taking out a car loan. The largest payment that is required is the initial deposit. Because the lease will usually be less than three years, the car will always be covered under warranty. Another benefit to car leasing is that a person or company may change their cars every few years. Changing cars every few years is made so simple by car leasing. It is not necessary to try and sell the old car. There are so many advantages to car leasing it's easy to see why it's becoming so popular. An
