

Title:

Having Fun With Thought Crimes

Word Count:

1169

Summary:

Find out what I learned in a smoke filled back room of a Las Vegas Casino when... I became a T
Find out what a self-confessed "thought criminal" discovered about hypnosis, NLP, Persuasion and manipulation and how easy it is to get what you want from ANYONE... even YOURSELF.

Keywords:

nlp, hypnosis, JK Ellis, Mind Control, Persuasion, Influence,

Article Body:

Becoming a thought criminal means thinking your own thoughts and going after what you and decide matter what.

Patience for the operator comes from having a clear outcomes. ^Outcomes~ are defined as goals control of the operator. Anything that is not under the control of the operator falls into the hopes and the operator is advised to ignore them.

With an understanding of outcomes, the rest is a matter of time hence the need for patience. T understanding that while the end outcome has value the next most recent outcome is the most i

This mindset prevents the hurried rush of urgency that is often accompanies unrestrained youth

The Mystery of Silence

Silence, as you'll learn, creates a unique sense of mystery. The operator does well to apply t considering his outcomes:

Conceal your intentions.

Being open with your intentions invites people who will obstruct, steal and hijack what you've Demonstrate through actions never through argument.

Telling people what you do will invite the thought that you are a braggart and you risk boring your accomplishments. If these stories are remembered they are likely to be retold with scepti what is done and build stories and mythologies around your actions by combining their story wi

Use this to your advantage and let other people speak of your actions.

Always say less than necessary.

There is a mystery that comes from the ^strong silent~ type. Saying something outright can be allude to something, even something you know will happen, when it occurs the mystery will be c

This does not mean that you are unemotional or cold. Instead you behave as if you know somethi don't know or something that they shouldn't know.

Make what is difficult seem easy.

This again adds to the mystery of the operator. There are several ways that this can be done, like slight of hand or prestidigitation. One method using guile is to allude to an unforeseen event that you knew about it before hand but this should be done sparingly. Another such way to make the difference between you and experience and has the strongest impact.

With this strong emphasis on mystery it does not mean that you act completely inaccessible. In fact, you should be treated as a mystery. What you know is for few to discover and only those rare individuals who learn it. This will allow you to mix in any social circle, tease, laugh, flirt and cajole while your knowledge and understanding follows you like a compelling lover.

Conviction

Conviction is a fairly simple concept. It means that you are certain of what you are doing and that you are so convinced that what you are doing is right, justified and good that you will act. Strong conviction will compel you so powerfully to face any opposition without fear or hesitation. It will also cause you to ignore any personal fears or anxieties.

With that as a definition of conviction ask yourself if there is anything you feel that strongly about. Dive into it and use it as a resource.

If you don't yet have something that motivates you to that level of conviction it's not too late. Find things that you love to do and be active in. Remember times when you committed yourself to do something and you knew it was right and felt good.

If you ever want to watch two people empowered by their conviction speaking to the public just watch Rev. Billy Graham or Adolf Hitler. Ignore the message and turn off the sound. Just watch the speakers that are hard to ignore. That is the level of conviction you might want to aspire to.

Focus

If you have a strong conviction that what you are doing is right. You won't need too much help. But let's assume you have no idea what focus really is.

First, your sense of focus is to be used and demonstrated whenever you are with someone who could recruit or initiate. When you are in their presence there should be nothing more than them on your mind. Your goal is to create an experience for them (you're a guru remember?) that they are the most important people in the world to them at that moment in time.

In order to do this let's take a look at how most of our lives are like.

First, there is no secret to the fact that no matter who you are shit is going to happen. You have a bill, feed your belly and think about where the next dollar is coming from... this is just a part of life.

Your ability to focus and get what you want with a prospect, recruit or initiate can be directed at these things if you let them. Even if they never come up in conversation. If those distracting things are in your mind during a conversation you will not impact anyone to the degree that you could.

What you have to do at those moment is intentionally put aside everything that could distract your attention to that person. When you do that nothing else is important and it will affect them in a way that you can't control.

Winning no matter the outcome; The God Complex

The God Complex is my favorite subject and so I hope I do it justice.

The God Complex has absolutely nothing to do with a growing sense of infallibility and megalomania.

What makes up the God Complex is really a perspective that is far more distant than your next breath.

Let's face it. With every goal you have a possibility of failure. That's just life. It does happen to everyone.

But if you incorporate any possible failure into your ^big picture~ and find a way so that you can handle it, there will never be a disappointment or surprise.

Most people ^fail~ only because they invest too much of themselves in their success so that when they fail they are devastated. Some never recover. However if they realize failure is possible and incorporate it into their plan, all they do is continue on with their business.

They have a bigger picture of themselves, Life, and their goals.

The result is they are more flexible to respond to what life throws them. Nothing surprises them. They are kinder to themselves when someone truly ^gets it~ or 2) when someone who should get doesn't. They are kinder to themselves around them because they feel in control no matter what the situation.

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>