

Title:

Computers at war in the 70's and 80's

Word Count:

299

Summary:

In the '70s, two computers nearly became dominant: the Apple II and the Commodore 64

Keywords:

computers, pc, technology

Article Body:

The '70s and the '80s could be easily described as the 'computer war'. Every company had a new

In the '70s, two computers nearly became dominant: the Apple II and the Commodore 64. Both of

It was in 1980, however, that IBM launched its IBM PC, and things really went crazy. IBM's PC

In 1990, Microsoft released Windows 3.0 (the first version of Windows to be really successful)

From then on, the PC was the dominant computer ~ today, it is estimated to have between 95% and

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>