Title:
How To Excel In A Technical Job Interview

Word Count:
846

Summary:
A technical job interview can make anyone nervous! Chris Bryant, CCIE #12933, has been on bot

Article Body:
Ah, the technical interview. Nothing like it. Not only does it cause anxiety, but it causes

How many people will be asking questions? From experience I can tell you there´s nothing like

Second, what will you be asked? You´ll sometimes hear people say the questions they were aske

Having been on both sides of the technical interview table, I´d like to share some tips for th

No good interviewer expects you to know everything. The problem is, you´re not always going t

Sometimes, the person who´s giving you a technical interview was asked to do it about ten minu

None of us know everything.   If you´re asked a question you just don´t know the answer to, do

If your interviewer acts like he/she already dislikes you, that´s because they do.   I once wo

This technician participated in a group technical interview where the applicant was an incredi

The applicant fielded four questions from the rest of us flawlessly, then faced this particula

^You can´t do what you just described.˜

The tech started defending his question, and it became obvious that he hadn´t been able to fol

Realize right now that there are some unprofessional people out there giving technical intervi

Be prepared for a practical technical interview. The best technical interviewers find a way t

Be professional.   This covers a lot of ground, so let me make a quick list for you.

Show up 15 minutes early. Nothing makes a technical interviewer more surly than waiting for t

Dress for success.   The way you look when you walk into a room leads to your interviewer´s fi

Don´t chew gum during the interview.

Don´t be arrogant.   Look, there´s nothing wrong with having an ego and acting confident. I d

Finally, relax. Easy to say, hard to do? Not really. Realize that the majority of interview

Do not look upon the interview as something negative. Rather, look at it as an opportunity to

Chris Bryant

CCIE   #12933

_____