Why Change To Windows Vista: Part 2 of 4

Having caught his breath and dispatched the laugh monster (just in time for Halloween) the Ten

In Part 1 of Why Change To Windows Vista, Remote Helpdesk 1, examined Microsoft's reasons 1 th

MS#26. "Because you're a multitasker"

While Scientific studies reveal the hidden costs of multitasking as technology increasingly te

If anyone were tempting Microsoft employees to use anything other than best practices there wo

Aren't all of us forced to multi task toooo much as it is? Back off Gates!

MS#27. " Because your computer can keep up with you while you're on the go"

Lik

e the pager and the cell phone, the curse of the hand held, laptop, note book and other portab

MS#28. "Enjoy your memories, larger than life"

Sorry, The Tennessee Mountain Man finds nothing new here.

MS#29. "Take the handwritten approach"

O.K. Been around forever. Ever checked out at the store or used an ATM with a touch screen?

MS#30. "Restore your PC in an instant"

Hello! I know I am not as smart as the Microsoft gurus but haven't that covered this already,

In the army we taught by telling students what we were going to teach them, doing the teaching

P.S. Don't miss their last caveat.

MS#31. "Because your PC lets you know if something's wrong and helps you fix it"

Sorry, The Tennessee Mountain Man could find nothing new here either unless the user has been

Now the Tennessee Mountain Man is in danger of becoming repetitive, but Microsoft is not givin

MS#32. "Streamline IT management across your business"

Oh!!!!!! So!!!!!!! It is actually just an upgrade Microsoft Server 2003 with all the patches an

MS#33. "Preserve a lifetime of memories"

It has a back up feature!!!! Really?

MS#34. "Connect to the network at work or school"

Not to mention connecting at your motel, Mickey D's, your grand ma's, and a million other places

MS#35. "Because you'll know it when you see it"

And we haven't seen it yet....moving right along....

MS#36. "Get a "do-over" when you need it"

And I have some swamp property I need to unload before you lose everything.

MS#37. "Keep your info under lock and key"

This may be the best reason so far. But, let's face it, if Microsoft and the U.S. Government could

On the other hand, have you lost the pass words to get into today's IBM laptops?

MS#38. "It's the cure for red-eye"

No, they were not brazen enough to say it would keep you from working nights. What they are doing

MS#39. "Relive your memories each and every one"

O.K. Microsoft likes to be redundant, remote computer repair services does not.

MS#40. "Because you love what you do"

Especially when the windows operating don't crash or lock up, and performs more reliably like

But watch Microsoft's caveat at the end of this reasoning.

MS#41. "Because your PC will stay up to date, automatically"

Has it not done that for years? Oh, yes, I'm sorry. The Tennessee Mountain Man almost forgot

MS#42. "E-mail your photos without worrying about the file size"

Oh, really? The ISP on each end of the spectrum may have different ideas.

MS#43. "It's parent friendly"

What is that supposed to mean? It is slow? Because it is!

Oh, sorry they are referring to parental controls like the ones parents and bosses have used for

MS#44. "Because you have a need for speed"

"Need to speed up your computer? Simply plug a USB memory stick into your desktop or notebook

O.K., I could, but I won't. Kudos!!!!!!!!!!

MS#45. "Because you hate all those boxes and wires"

That is why we had already eliminated them.....next...

MS#46. "Your music can look as good as it sounds"

At Branson maybe! Now just what does this do that is an improvement over XP?

MS#47. "Let the fun start now"

Are we having fun yet? No!!!!!!!

MS#48. "Stay connected wherever you go"

Duh!!!!!! We just covered this subject!

MS#49. "Take your workspace with you"

Although Microsoft remains redundant, I can't help but respond....The labor laws of the U.S. m

I want to get away on occasion and Microsoft wants a robot chasing me around demanding more...

MS#50. "Get more out of the web"

Watch the caveat as Microsoft makes a johnny come lately feeble attempt to catch up with other

Is the Tennessee Mountain Man speechless yet? No, but we'll take another stab at it tomorrow
