Life is set to become a whole lot easier for UK landlords if the findings of a Law Commission

If you own a buy-to-let property, or are considering joining the growing band of landlords, it

It appears that there is a steadily growing demand for rental property with many new investors

These contracts are legal documents between landlord and tenant and at present, unbelievably,

The more usual contract currently which is used by the majority of private landlords is called

If the Law Commission's proposals become law, then the number of these contracts will be reduced

It appears that it won't be mandatory to replace the old assured shorthold tenancy with new ones

This ^tidying up~ will make life a whole lot more simple, both for the current and prospective
