

Title:

How To Survive The Financial Strain... It's Gonna Happen!

Word Count:

699

Summary:

When you start a home business, it's all too easy to get carried away by all your new obligati

Keywords:

Article Body:

When you start a home business, it's all too easy to get carried away by all your new obligati

The End of Stability... or the Beginning?

Many people get very upset a few months after they quit their job and start their own business

Well, you are in almost all 'real' jobs, when hiring and firing is at the whim of your manager

Living With It.

You knew this was going to be hard on you financially when you started -- it's no excuse to gi

The only advice to give here is that you shouldn't take any more financial risk than you're co

Keep Clear Records.

The absolute worst and most stressful thing is not to know exactly what your financial situati

The simplest way to keep records for yourself is to use a simple accounting program, or even j

Don't Start Taking Sick Days.

It can be all too easy to take 'sick days' when the only person you answer to is yourself -- w

What's the Worst That Can Happen?

Think of it this way: what's the absolute worst case scenario, the thing that you're most afra

Basically, when you run a home business, you might have to make a few short-term sacrifices to

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>