You see, the Euro was setting up to making what looked to be a big break higher against the Do

The strategy I devised that day had me buying the Euro against the Dollar at about $1.21 (mean

Let's say that I bought 100,000 Euros against the Dollar. That's a position size of about $121

Now let's say I checked on the trade once per day during the time I held it. That's about eigh

So if I had put on a 100,000 Euro position I would have spent 4 1/2 hours to make $7000 - more

This story isn't about telling you how great a trader I am. Rather, the point is that I was ab

Let's face it. There are a heck of a lot more people who trade part-time than full-time. The d

Part-time traders are at least as capable of doing well in the markets and making a positive c
