

Title:

Scottish Cuisine: Haggis

Word Count:

523

Summary:

Haggis is a traditional Scottish highland dish that resembles, in some senses, a rather rough

Keywords:

cuisine,Scottish cuisine,haggis

Article Body:

Haggis is a traditional Scottish highland dish that resembles, in some senses, a rather rough

Though the traditional response to the question ^what is a haggis?~ is often answered with a j

While it is sometimes made of deer, the haggis is more often based on sheep. It is a combinati

Haggis is often served with "neeps and tatties" A ^neep~ is swede, or rutabaga, and is shorten

Traditionally, haggis is served at Burns Suppers, on January 25 of each year. That these event

Unfortunately for haggis lovers, some of the ingredients are illegal and it is sometimes hard

Interestingly, haggis is not used only for eating. There is an official Haggis Throwing World

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>