Article Body:

The other day while browsing various gadget sites I came across an interesting looking device I read up on the information of the product and a summary is given now.

A goodsphere bubble provides the following benefits.

It eliminates nasty odours from cooking and smoking all though I do not smoke some of my friends do.

The goodsphere bubble acts as an ioniser which converts the positive ions within the room atmosphere into negative ions.

The goodsphere bubble also acts as a humidifier last year I had a humidifier and it did make a difference.

So having read the sales page and knowing that people are coming to stay soon I decided to invest in one.

I unpacked the item filled with water I had also bought the apple orchard essence with the kit.

The effect that these bubbles produce is so dramatic that I immediately ordered a second device.

I also did some experiments in recording myself asleep to see if this has any effect on my snoring.

Each essence lasts for around 24 hours you simply clean the unit and add fresh water and fresh essence.

The unit also comes with the option to have an LED base which illuminates the device through a hole in the top.

The aroma therapy qualities include the ability to combat and neutralize harmful bacteria such as MRSA.
