Article Body:

Alcoholism is not a problem that is exclusive to adults. Many teenagers find themselves addicted

A significant number of adolescents between the ages of twelve and twenty are affected by alcohol

The problem can have serious ramifications on the adolescent's development and future endeavors

Since the reasons behind substance abuse in teens are different than it is in adults, it is necessary

Alcohol treatment for teenagers should be age-appropriate and it should involve other family members

Sometimes alcohol treatment for teens requires a stay at a rehabilitation facility. This is required

Self-help groups like Alcoholics Anonymous, Al-Anon and Alateen are very viable options for a
