

Title:

Common Causes of Lung Cancer

Word Count:

505

Summary:

The risk factor for developing lung cancer among smokers is 25% greater than those people that

Keywords:

lung cancer, cancer, quit smoking

Article Body:

There are a various risk factors that are linked to lung cancer. The most common known causes

Cigarette Smoking

Cigarette smoking is probably the most closely related link to developing lung cancer. A pers

The risk of developing lung cancer increases with the number of cigarettes smoked over your li

Secondhand Smoke

Also known as passive smoking, people exposed to secondhand smoke on a regular basis will have

Asbestos Exposure

Exposure to asbestos is another well-known cause of lung cancer and mesothelioma - cancer of t

Radon Gas

It is estimated that about 12% of lung cancer deaths can be attributed to radon gas, a colorle

Air Pollution

Scientists estimate that as many as 1% of all lung cancer deaths are attributable to air pollu

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>