

Title:

Common Cold: As Common As The Air We Breathe

Word Count:

557

Summary:

A common cold is an infection of the upper respiratory tract, nose and throat. It is usually

Keywords:

common cold, headache, depression, bacterial infection

Article Body:

Watery eyes, congestion, sniffles, sneezes, sore throat, cough, headache...these are some of t

There are approximately 200 viruses that can cause a cold. Most colds are caused by rhinovirus

A cold begins when one of several different kinds of cold virus attaches to the lining of the

The common cold is spread mostly by hand-to-hand contact. Like if a person with a cold blows o

There's still no cure for the common cold, however, there are plenty of cold symptom remedies.

If symptoms of a common cold aren't improving, it is always advisable to see a doctor to make

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>