In order for a family to work well together, each member needs to give of themselves to one another.

Sometimes in a family, there can be a fight where it is so bad, that one separates themselves from the family.

There's nothing like having dinner together as a family. There's just something that makes the time together special.

Family time together, whether it would be watching a movie or going to a movie, or a day in the park.

Many households have both parents working. The kids come home from school to an empty house. They miss their parents.

It only takes one family member to get the ball rolling. So if your family is not as tight as you would like, try to spend more time together.
