Compared to my business partner's six year nightmare "only" maybe appropriate but like most victims

Privacy Rights Clearinghouse, a consumer nonprofit organization, reported that victims spend on

What are the steps to identity restoration? It starts with obtaining a police report. That report

You're also going to need the police report to contact the many and I mean many different agencies

Know your rights. According to the Fair Credit Reporting Act of 1992, you must be told not only

This brings us to the credit bureaus. Make sure your credit report reflects the identity theft

Once a negative gets put on your record, it seems the credit bureaus refuse to remove it, in spite

Stay Away from "credit repair companies". No matter what they advertise, there's usually nothing

Advise the utility companies. It's not just bank accounts and credit cards. Many identity thieves

If necessary get counseling. Identity theft can be a shattering experience mentally and emotionally

The road back from identity theft can take years, cost a lot of money, and cause much stress and
