Article Body:

If irritating ants have found their way into your home and invaded your life, you are not alone.

Once they've invaded your house, ants are one of the most difficult pests to control. The National Pest Management Association (NPMA) reports that ants are the most common household pest in the United States.

1. In many cases, ants enter your home in search of food. You can keep ants out by keeping your home clean and free of food sources.
2. Avoid leaving pet food dishes out for long periods of time. You can create a moat to keep ants out of your home.
3. Caulk and seal all cracks and crevices around your home's foundation that could provide entry points for ants.
4. Eliminate sources of moisture or standing water that may attract ants. It is important to g
5. If ants do find their way into your house despite these precautions and they prove too big
