

Title:

Memories of Mother's Day Past

Word Count:

568

Summary:

This afternoon, whilst partaking in some quality procrastination I reflected on Mother's Days

Keywords:

Mother's Day Past, Mother's Day, daughter, son, cake, pancake, Gold Coast, restaurant, love, b

Article Body:

Yes, I remember well the cold tinned prawns on my plate with a lone crunchy potato that had be

Years ago I loathed pancakes, as a matter of fact they would make me gag, a left over from my

On this particular Mother's Day my very young daughter decided to make me pancakes for breakfa

Several Mother's Days later a cake was lovingly baked for me. This cake was so bad it was tota

Many years later and a younger brother added, I am pleased to see that nothing has changed in

On Mother's Day I have a very patient family. With clenched teeth and drooped shoulders they

In recent years, we've driven around the Gold Coast hinterland in Queensland Australia in the

The following Mother's Day we again drove to the Gold Coast without booking a table and so we

There have also been many Mother's Days spent with breakfasts or lunches along our coastal reg

Sadly these days we are not often together as a family. It will still be a wonderful day spen

Mother's Days are special to me because of the children in my life; they are the tops, I love

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>