

Title:

What You Need To Know To Move Yourself

Word Count:

395

Summary:

Moving yourself can be a great way to save money--millions of people move this way every year.

Keywords:

What You Need To Know To Move Yourself

Article Body:

Moving yourself can be a great way to save money--millions of people move this way every year.

While moving yourself is always hard work, a few tips from Budget Truck Rental can make it easier.

&#8226; Think size. Before renting a truck, consider what size truck you will be needing. A 10-foot truck is usually the best size for most moves.

&#8226; Moving big things? Tie bed frames together with tape or rope. Label pieces so they're easy to find.

Remove the legs on a table, pad and tie together. Put nuts and bolts in a bag and tape under the table.

&#8226; Moving small things? Put your microwave, VCR, etc., into boxes and cushion with crumpled paper.

&#8226; What about awkward things? Wrap the arms and legs of a chair with bubble wrap. Leave space around the chair.

&#8226; Remember to load large items into the truck first and put heavy boxes on the bottom.

&#8226; Choose the day. It can be cheaper to move midweek (Sunday through Thursday), so check with your rental company.

&#8226; Get help if you need it. Some truck rental companies offer help packing and loading the truck.

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>