So now that you've finally decided to purchase that product and can't wait to try it out, you

1. False advertising

"Get 10.000 hits to your website in 24 hours". Such tempting promises might sure make you want

2. Product outdated

Believe it or not, but I've seen products that were still advertised and happily took the money

3. Usability

Not every software is as user-friendly as Windows (you got the joke, right?!), which can be frustrating

If you've contacted the product creator and still were not able to get a refund despite some 1

It is always suggested to clearly state the reason for your product refund and to keep a friendly

Whatever you do, please be fair. It's just not right to purchase a product which you badly want
