

Title:

About Dead Websites

Word Count:

827

Summary:

Have you ever heard about `dead websites`? It is about the websites which end their life on in

Keywords:

dead websites, internet archive

Article Body:

Have you ever heard about `dead websites`? It is about the websites which end their life on in

The idea about this dark part of internet came up when I was surfing on a shortwave radio in t

`They are born, they grow, they are loved by a few, they communicate a few things, and then th

You would think that the Google Robot which spiders every online information and transfers it

On the contrary, I found that search engines in general do not like dead sites. One of their p

The searchengines might not be interested in them but that does not decrease their importance

In fact the few information that are available on the internet already give a hint to the comi

Another site called www.disobey.com shows in the category `ghostsites` a list of dead sites on

Of course, also in this field the smart ones are first. A website already promotes itself with

Unfortunately, the social rule seems to be valid also over here. Like the Dutch expression says

Not to be a bread for others, don't forget to say when you open your browser each morning and

Still Alive!

(published at: <http://www.tobook.com/newsletter/newsletter.asp>)

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>