

Title:

Art Theft: Most Famous Cases in History

Word Count:

669

Summary:

Review of the most famous cases of art thefts in history including the stealing of the Mona Lisa

Keywords:

art theft, art thefts, art fakers, art, Mona Lisa, Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum, art thieves, Edvard

Article Body:

Art theft is an ancient and complicated crime. When you look at the some of the most famous ca

The First Theft:

The first documented case of art theft was in 1473, when two panels of altarpiece of the Last

The Most Famous Theft:

The most famous story of art theft involves one of the most famous paintings in the world and

It took about two years until the mystery was solved by the Parisian police. It turned out tha

While Yves Chaudron, the art faker, was busy creating copies for the famous masterpiece, Mona

The Biggest Theft in the USA:

The biggest art theft in United States took place at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum. On t

As of yet, none of the paintings have been found and the case is still unsolved. According to

The Scream:

The painting by Edvard Munchs, The Scream, is probably the most sought after painting by art t

Three months later, the holders of the painting approached the Norwegian Government with an of Ten years later, The Scream was stolen again from the Munch Museum. This time, the robbers use

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>