Title:
Researching Information To Develop Your Unique Content

Word Count:
574

Summary:
We live in a sea of information. And information overload is an increasingly common complaint.

When you email your list or put up content on your site, and assuming you want to generate loy

If this makes sense to you, he...

Keywords:
tools,business,software,shopping

Article Body:
We live in a sea of information. And information overload is an increasingly common complaint.

When you email your list or put up content on your site, and assuming you want to generate loy

If this makes sense to you, here are some ideas you can use to EASILY generate fresh content w

First of all, think about a subject in which you are interested.

Let's say it's horticulture. Now if you're not aware of it, let me put you in the picture. Mos

So let's go exploring...

1 - Google has lots of tools besides just web searches. They let you check the news. (http://n

2 - Google also has "groups." (http://groups.google.com/) These are folks who like to discuss

Think you might be able to do a little research and come up with a free or even a for-profit r

Check out Google's other tools, too. You can even get research info from universities through

3 - Next method: Do this search (keeping in the punctuation as written):

+horticulture +free +filetype:pdf

As of this writing, Google shows 196,000 hits for this query. What you get here are free downl

Now you can't simply copy and use it as your own information. You have to create your writing

4 - Go to http://Alexa.com. Do a search on your subject, in this example, horticulture. It pro

When you do the search, you don't want to click the link that takes you to the listed site. In

These are just some of the easy ways to branch out your explorations and find gold to weave in Golden searching... :)