

Title:

When And How To Withdraw Your Ebay Bid

Word Count:

511

Summary:

eBay are a little strict about letting you withdraw your bid. They call it a 'bid retraction',

You made a typographical error: This means that you accidentally typed the wrong amount into t

Keywords:

Article Body:

eBay are a little strict about letting you withdraw your bid. They call it a 'bid retraction',

You made a typographical error: This means that you accidentally typed the wrong amount into t

The item's description changed: If you bid on something and then the seller updates the descri

The seller is uncontactable: If emails to the seller bounce and they don't answer their phone,

So How Do I Retract My Bid?

eBay hide away the bid retraction form a bit, because they don't like people using it. You can

Now all you need is the item number from your auction: this can be found on the item descripti

Are There Any Consequences?

Well yes, there are. The more unethical among you might have considered that you could just ca

So is there a way to retract your bid without facing a penalty? There is if your seller is nic

Of course, retracting your bid should still be a rare thing: you won't win auctions that way!

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>