

Title:

History of Luminox watches

Word Count:

656

Summary:

This article provides information about Luminox watches, more specifically the history of Luminox watches.

Keywords:

history of luminox watch, luminox watch, luminox navy seal watch, luminox watch company

Article Body:

Luminox watches are known by the self-powered illumination system that is unique to them, and

Richard Timbo and Barry Cohen, two business acquaintances who knew each other through their ca

The new design watches, which were initially marketed under the brand name of the Swiss compan

The unknown brand of watches was still struggling to make a mark in a competitive market that

This was a turning point in the history of Luminox watches. The seal of approval given by the

After selling several thousands of its plastic model watches for five years, the company intro

In the fall of 2000, the company came out with an all steel series and an all titanium series.

The company also developed a new version that was targeted at special customers adding freshne

If the call from the US navy was a major milestone in the history of Luminox watches, the Air

Luminox subsequently acquired rights to develop watches for the unique requirements of aviatio

The company is now working on plans for new ranges of watches for meeting both the requirement

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>