First make sure you know your boat. You can't expect to complete successful docking maneuvers

Next remember that operating a boat in water can be tricky and is nothing like driving a car.

When it comes to maneuvering remember that a boat with twin engines will perform better than a reverse to successfully turn your boat on its own axis. Sometimes it can even be easier to dock Consider the freeboard and wind of your boat. The freeboard is the distance from the deck to the freeboard.

Finally always remember that no matter how well you know the mechanics of handling your boat,
