

Title:

First People From The Midlands Ever To Cross The Indian Ocean

Word Count:

323

Summary:

Two amateur rower's are gearing up to become the first people from the Midlands ever to cross

Keywords:

First People From The Midlands Ever To Cross The Indian Ocean

Article Body:

Two amateur rower's are gearing up to become the first people from the Midlands ever to cross

David Lynes, from Redditch and Steven Redgewell from Evesham, otherwise known as Team DevOcean

The race, part of the series of three races organized by Woodvale which saw James Cracknell and

Team DevOcean will have to battle shark infested seas in temperatures of around 30 degrees, rain

Website consultant David, 27, said it was his friend Steven, a web developer and seasoned amateur

"I became suspicious that Steve was up to something when he kept quizzing me about my fitness.

"This will probably be the biggest thing we ever do in our lives. We don't just plan on taking

The next year and a half is going to be a campaign of extensive training and fund raising. To

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>