

Title:

History Of The Detroit Pistons, Their Highs And Lows

Word Count:

518

Summary:

Fred Zollner, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, founded the Detroit Pistons in the 1940's. The team was Led by Bobby McDermott, the team's guard, the Pistons dominated the NBL and made it to the series.

Keywords:

Article Body:

Fred Zollner, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, founded the Detroit Pistons in the 1940's. The team was Led by Bobby McDermott, the team's guard, the Pistons dominated the NBL and made it to the series.
In 1944, they at last won their first championship title and they followed that up with another.
The NBA's first five seasons featured the Pistons in the playoffs and twice the team advanced.
During the 1980's, draft picks and trades brought many new players to the team: Isaiah Thomas,
In the late eighties and early nineties, the Detroit Pistons moved to the Palace of Auburn Hills.
Later, the Pistons began to fade as their roster disbanded. At the same time, the Chicago Bulls
In the 2004 NBA Finals, the Detroit Pistons, led by guard Chauncey Billups and teammates Richard

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>