

Title:

Oln's Playoff Hockey Coverage Doesn't Make The Cut

Word Count:

532

Summary:

Like many hockey fans, I was just happy that hockey was back this year. I didn't care that ESPN

I understand that they have never done the NHL before and that they only had a few months to h

Keywords:

oln, nhl, hockey, playoffs

Article Body:

Like many hockey fans, I was just happy that hockey was back this year. I didn't care that ESPN

I understand that they have never done the NHL before and that they only had a few months to h

After watching the opening weekend of the 2006 NHL Playoffs, here are my thoughts:

- The camera angles are mediocre at best. The camera for the first 10 minutes of the Red Wings
- Jack Edwards should not be doing play-by-play for nationally televised playoff games. I miss
- Speaking of Bill Clement, he's not a studio guy, he's a color commentator. Next season pleas
- It's not OLN's fault, but not having another network (i.e. ESPN 2) hurts the fans. We used t
- The score takes up far too much of the screen on top. Do we need to see gigantic logos of ea
- With two minutes left in the Red Wings vs. Oilers Game 1, with the score tied at 2, the came
- Game two of the double header on Friday, Anaheim vs. Calgary, was 'bonus coverage', i.e. OLN

And that was only the first weekend of coverage. It's going to be a long playoff season

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>