However, I've noticed that the different types of defensive driving school courses vary wildly. But, if you think defensive driving might be an option for you to pursue, use this quick check

- 1) Look at online options. Did you know that in some states, you don't even have to go to a physical location?
- 2) Go for the comedy option. If you can't do it online, you might as well have a little comedy in your driving school.
- 3) Locations are fine and dandy, but if you don't learn anything, you'll quickly find yourself
