Article Body:

In June 2006, Superintendent Carl Cohn appointed five new area superintendents for the San Diego Schools.

Each new area superintendent will be an advocate for the schools under them, as well as the community.

These five appointments complete key staffing of top leadership positions in the San Diego Schools.

The new area one superintendent is Carol Barry. She earned an MA in school administration from San Diego State University.

The area two superintendent is Dr. Hye Jung (Chelsea) Kang-Smith. Kang-Smith holds an Ed.D. from San Diego State University.

Dr. Richard Cansdale is the area three superintendent. He holds an Ed.D. in educational leadership from San Diego State University.

The area four superintendent is Vincent Matthews, who was a 2006 fellow of the Broad Superintendents Institute.

Dr. Delfino Aleman, Jr. is the area five superintendent. He holds a Ph.D. in educational administration from San Diego State University.

In addition to these five new appointments, the San Diego Schools filled three other positions.

Dorothy Harper is the new associate superintendent for parent, community and student engagement.

Arun Ramanathan, an advanced doctoral fellow at Harvard, is the new executive director for government relations.

Dr. Kyo Yamashiro is the San Diego Schools' new director of school management. She holds a Ph.D. from San Diego State University.

These appointments excite the San Diego Schools. All will serve well the more than 132,000 students.
