I am always amused by the never ending argument between the snoring people and their beloved o

One morning I was blamed for snoring, my first reply was: I never snore, you must be wrong. S

Before I could find a solution I had to figure out why I was snoring in the first place. I hav

Snoring usually takes place when the upper parts of our breathing path, at the palate, weaken.

That information alone has convinced me that this is truly my problem and not my wife's, and t

The first things I have found were conventional: from a dental device which moves the jaw forw

Finally I have found a cure that ended my, and especially my wife's, misery. It was perfectly
