

Title:

How To Develop Creative Thinking

Word Count:

875

Summary:

In my opinion, creativity is the real genius. Intelligent children learn fast, and apply their

How can we teach our children creative thinking? How can we teach them the habit of thinking "

Here are...

Keywords:

child, baby, babies, parenting, genius, gifted, intelligence, intelligent, teacher, learning

Article Body:

In my opinion, creativity is the real genius. Intelligent children learn fast, and apply their

How can we teach our children creative thinking? How can we teach them the habit of thinking "

Here are a few easy and fun suggestions for activities that will go a long way toward developi

1. Play the following game: one person starts telling a story. He stops after a few sentences

2. Prepare a series of pictures. The pictures can be taken from a book, from several books, f

3. Prepare a series of words written on cards. Play the same game - tell a story using these

4. Play a piece of classical music, and let your child tell you what kind of mood does this m

5. Play a piece of music, and have your child paint a picture that shows the mood this music

6. When your child comes up with a story in one of the previous activities, ask your child to

7. When reading a book with your child, always ask open ended and thought provoking questions

8. Print several pictures on paper. (You can use cardboard if you'd like to make the pieces m

9. Play "pretend" games with your child often, or use "role playing" with your child. When yo

10. When your child has friends visiting, have them come up with a short play and perform it f

11. Encourage your child to paint a picture of an object. Then have him paint it in different

12. Choose a day a week, and have all family members do their routine activities in a differen

13. Don't ever discourage your child from using his imagination. If your child tells an imagin

14. Keep your eyes open for any signs of creativity and originality. Always praise and encoura

Have fun, and enjoy! To your child's creativity!

