Article Body:

Recently in India, a news appeared. The news was not shocking but must be given a second thought.

This story has great human touch of a sacrificing mother saving for her daughter to keep her dream.

Will the daughter come back from Australia and begin earning well, and then ask her mother to value for such money that is considered dishonorable by the mother? What value for such a relationship?

If moral and right living is the goal then the daughter should ask the mother to immediately stop.

We sometimes forget that good life requires sacrifices. Nothing good comes out comfortably. Life is hard.

Both the mother and the daughter should come to term with mother's deeds. Atone for the perceived wrongs.
