New Year's resolutions, however, do give a hint at one way to go about setting personal object

How To Go About Setting Your Personal Objectives

There is more than one way to set about formulating personal objectives, but I will concentrat

1. Your first step is to identify an area, or areas, of your life where you want to make signi

2. Once you have decided on what area of your life to concentrate on first, you should then th

3. You should now go over your list of business related weaknesses, and prioritise them. If so

For this example, let us assume that your most critical weakness in your new business is finan

4. Now think more about the finance side of the business, and with a new sheet of paper write

5. Assuming everything about finance and accounting is a mystery to you, set out a plan to rem

a. Learn some basic bookkeeping. You can achieve this through a book on accounting for small b

b. Get to know your own accounting system, or maybe introduce a simple accounting software pro

c. Get to understand profit and loss accounts so that you can start to understand how and why

d. Learn to do cash flow forecasts, which will always be critical to your business.

By the end of the year, you should have a better understanding of your business finances, and

The finance and accounting example is just one. It could also be marketing or time management
