Article Body:

Stammering or as it is sometimes known as stuttering is a form of speech impediment.

My name is Stephen Hill and I had a stammer for eighteen years. I went to various types of spe

At the age of twenty two, after a lot of hard work I managed to overcome the stammer and I now

These are the types of situation that I found that I was most likely to stammer:

Ordering food and drink at a bar

Phone calls

Introducing people

Meeting new people

Talking when under pressure

Talking when tired or stressed

On my first day at senior school, all of the first year pupils were shown to their form room,

He then said

"OK class, I have introduced myself. I don't know any of you in here and most of you won't know

He asked somebody on the front row to start, but because I was hiding at the back of the room,

This is one of many bad days I had during the time when stammering was ruining my life.

Now that I am able to talk without the fear of stammering, life has become far less of a struggle
