If you have decided to use a vending operator, then you need to find a reliable company. There

- How much experience does the company have?
- How will you agree the prices to be charged for the vending goods?
- How does the payments system work between you and the operator?
- Can you agree a regular service agreement with the operator?
- Do you have all the information you need about insurance and the Food Hygiene Regulations?

A good vending operator and vending company will make sure that all these points are covered,

No matter what type of business you are in, if you think you have a site that would benefit fr
