

Title:

Perfected Mind Control

Word Count:

2369

Summary:

I want to develop a system of mind control that does all or most of the end results of traditional

Keywords:

mind control, NLP, Hypnosis, JK Ellis

Article Body:

This is a thought paper on a concept I've calling Perfected Mind Control or PMC for short. With PMC I want to develop a system of mind control that does all or most of the end results of

So, you see, I'm walking a fine line here but see something that could have some promise.

Terminology note: Today Mind control or brainwashing in academia is commonly referred to as coercion

The Goal of Perfected Mind Control (PMC) is to completely minimize or eliminate any perceptible

Coercion is defined as, "to restrain or constrain by force..." Legally it often implies the use of

A coercive persuasion program is a behavioral change technology applied to cause the "learning

The Korean War "Manchurian Candidate" misconception of the need for suggestibility-increasing

The phrase against their will implies that an individual has a clear preset intention. The term

This is much different and far less devastating than that which you are able to achieve with traditional

The key to PMC is to present all new concepts in terms of learning and all form of rejection

The advances in the extreme anxiety and emotional stress production technologies found in coercion

THE PURPOSES AND TACTICS OF COERCIVE PERSUASION

Coercive persuasion or thought reform as it is sometimes known, is best understood as a coordinated

The essential strategy used by those operating such programs is to systematically select, sequence

PURPOSE AND TACTICS OF 'PERFECTED MIND CONTROL

The purpose of PMC is to liberate the mind from automatic and unconscious responses that are pre-

TACTIC 1. The individual is prepared for thought reform through increased suggestibility and/or

In order for anyone to accept a new concept, yes, they must be softened up. However with PMC

TACTIC 2. Using rewards and punishments, efforts are made to establish considerable control over

More subtle punishments have greater power. Stunned glaring silence for example or merely looking

TACTIC 3. Disconfirming information and nonsupporting opinions are prohibited in group communication

Keeping the discussion on topic is important to PMC. That does allow for debate and to a point

TACTIC 4. Frequent and intense attempts are made to cause a person to re-evaluate the most central

Perfected Mind Control instead focuses first on the subject to re-evaluate any aspect of their

TACTIC 5. Intense and frequent attempts are made to undermine a person's confidence in himself

As in pointing out times when their behaviors did not match up to their stated values. While t

TACTIC 6. Nonphysical punishments are used such as intense humiliation, loss of privilege, soc

In Perfected Mind Control this is completely avoided by making the only punishment silence or

TACTIC 7. Certain secular psychological threats [force] are used or are present: That failure

In Perfected Mind Control the only psychological threat is not being one of us . This puts th

In Perfected Mind Control people will be asked and encouraged to leave the group to find out w

Another set of criteria has to do with defining other common elements of mind control systems.

Robert Jay Lifton's Eight Point Model of Thought Reform

1. ENVIRONMENT CONTROL. Limitation of many/all forms of communication with those outside the gr

Perfected Mind Control discourage limitations such as move in with our commune by making it

2. MYSTICAL MANIPULATION. The potential convert to the group becomes convinced of the higher p

Perfected Mind Control will emphasize that the only higher purpose is understanding that sense

3. DEMAND FOR PURITY. An explicit goal of the group is to bring about some kind of change, whe

In Perfected Mind Control (PMC) the demand for purity is replaced by the demand to truly learn

4. CULT OF CONFESSION. The unhealthy practice of self disclosure to members in the group. Ofte

The PMC model replaces confession of wrongs with exploration of wants, needs and desires. This

5. SACRED SCIENCE. The group's perspective is absolutely true and completely adequate to expla

For Perfected Mind Control the only truth that adequately explains everything is that We exper

6. LOADED LANGUAGE. A new vocabulary emerges within the context of the group. Group members "t

New vocabulary will emerge in any field of personal exploration and should be expected. PMC is

7. DOCTRINE OVER PERSON. Pre-group experience and group experience are narrowly and decisively

PMCs only doctrine is the commitment to self-exploration. All other fields of study are perm

8. DISPENSING OF EXISTENCE. Salvation is possible only in the group. Those who leave the group

Instead of only two categories of saved and doomed PMC allows for a minimum of three catag

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>