

Title:

A Cornish Walk: A Simple Tourist Activity, But An Absolute Must For An English Holiday

Word Count:

880

Summary:

Cornwall has always been a favourite holiday destination and its dramatic coastline, picturesque

Keywords:

holiday accommodation, holiday cottages, Cornwall holiday, UK holiday, bed and breakfast Cornwall

Article Body:

Cornwall has always been a favourite holiday destination and its dramatic coastline, picturesque

Parts of the walk between St Agnes and the Jericho Valley have been trodden so often by my students

St Agnes was once a busy centre of mining activity, the relics of which are dotted all around

On this walk you'll first head southwards on the coast path up a fairly steep climb away from

Continuing along the coast path you'll be rewarded with amazing views - careful though, some of

After about half a mile along the coast path you head inland and up towards the Beacon, the 1

Otherwise the route skirts the bottom of the Beacon, and then follows a path to St Agnes village

Next you'll see the quirky row of sea captain's cottages known as Stippy-Stappy, then follow the

You emerge out of the valley at Blue Hills Tin Streams, where you can see a working water wheel

You can get round this walk in a speedy two and half hours, but I think you should allow about

* Distance: 4.5miles

* Grade: Moderate

* Maps: OS Landranger 203, reference 721 515. Walk taken from Classic Walks Cornwall 1 ( published

* Parking: Leave your car at the car park in Trevaunance Cove, St Agnes

* Refreshments: St Agnes Hotel, for coffees and pub food opposite the church; Driftwood Spars

* Distractions: Galleries and shops in St Agnes village; Blue Hills Tin Streams, St Agnes, 018

Other walks in the area:

<http://www.cornwalltoday.co.uk/Activities/Walking+and+Viewpoints.aspx>

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>