Article Body:

Whether its a driving tour, a cruise or a bus, leaf viewing is a great way to spend a fall vacation.

Start preparing by taking out your favorite sweater. Think "chilly." Pack one that you can use.

Layering clothes is paramount for fall trips outdoors. The sudden sunny burst in the afternoon.

While we think of blue cloudless skies on an autumn afternoon the chance of rain is pretty high.

Make sure to add a small folding umbrella to your bag as well. Raincoats are fine but unless it rains.

Pack a warm hat and gloves. Comfortable shoes are also a must and if they also happen to be warm.

Your camera gear needs to be in good working order so check it at home before you leave. Take care.

However you are traveling you'll be on the move a lot, always more than you think, since you have to.

As long as you have the right gear you can travel anywhere anytime of the year. See you on the road.
