Cancun has always been a popular spring break travel destination. Whether you're a seasoned traveler or a first-time visitor, there are many things to consider when planning your trip to Cancun.

1. Time of year: While "Cancun in the Springtime" is very fun, the truth is that you're most likely to enjoy the weather in the winter months.

2. Your Budget: Decide how much you've got to spend, and don't forget to include extras like transportation and food.

3. Your secret dreams or "someday" wishes: For most of us, taking a vacation is something we've always wanted to do.

4. Political Climate: While most countries that rely on tourism make every effort to ensure that their visitors have a good time, it's always good to be aware of the current political climate in the destination.

5. Your own "internal clock": If you prefer sleeping in in the mornings, and "doing your own thing" in the evenings, you may want to consider a destination that offers a similar pace of life.

On the other hand, if you don't like traveling alone, you enjoy the companionship of others and prefer a more structured itinerary, you may want to consider a destination that offers a more social atmosphere.

6. How you like to spend your time: Take a little time to think about what you like doing before you go. Do you prefer relaxing on a beach, exploring the city, or participating in water sports?

While going outside your comfort zone and trying new things can be a great experience, spending your vacation doing what you love is also a great way to relax and recharge.

7. Use the resources that are available to make your trip special and save money: Today's travel industry offers a wealth of resources to help you plan your trip, from travel agents to online travel agencies.

8. Get organized: You can use trip-planning software, or your own favorite organizing system to help you keep track of all the details of your trip.

9. Pack lightly: Most of us take too much on a vacation, and end up lugging heavy suitcases and bags. Try to pack only what you need, and use packing cubes to help you organize your luggage.

10. Have fun! Get organized, make your plans and expect the best. That way, once you're on your way to Cancun, you can relax and enjoy every moment of your trip.
