

Title:

Thai Phrases That are Nice to Know.

Word Count:

341

Summary:

Thai Phrases That are Nice to Know.

Sawasdee Krap!

Keywords:

Thai Phrases, Thai Language, Thai Travel, Thailand, Bangkok, Pattaya

Article Body:

Thai Phrases That are Nice to Know.

I want to learn Thai. (phom yak rian pa sa thai)

Don't forget men say "phom" for "I". Women say "di-chun".

Can you teach me Thai? (sorn pa sa thai phom dai mai)

Can you help me please? (chuay dai mai)

For a "dai mai" question (can you?) they will reply "dai" for yes or "mai dai" for no.

Can you speak English? (poot pa sa ang grit dai mai)

For a "dai mai" question (can you?) they will reply "dai" for yes or "mai dai" for no.

I can only speak a little English. (poot pa sa ang grit dai nit noi)

Here we didn't put in "I" in the Thai sentence. It is not really needed when you are speaking

Can you speak Thai? (poot pa sa thai dai mai)

For a "dai mai" question (can you?) they will reply "dai" for yes or "mai dai" for no.

A little. (nit noi)

This is the best answer if someone asks you if you can speak Thai.

What do you call this in Thai? (nee pa sa thai riak wa a-rai)

Don't forget to point to some Thai words.

How do you spell it? (sa got yang rai)

Can you please write it down? (khian dai mai)

For a "dai mai" question (can you?) they will reply "dai" for yes or "mai dai" for no.

Do you understand? (khao jai mai)

I don't understand. (mai khao jai)

If you understand just say "kao jai".

Can you speak louder? (poot dang dang dai mai)

For a "dai mai" question (can you?) they will reply "dai" for yes or "mai dai" for no.

Can you speak slower? (poot char char dai mai)

For a "dai mai" question (can you?) they will reply "dai" for yes or "mai dai" for no.

Say again please. (poot eek krang)

I don't understand the word ... (mai khao jai cum wa ...)

Use this when a Thai person uses a word you don't understand.

What does ... mean? (... plae wa a-rai)

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>