

Title:

Travel Insurance ~ Do I Really Need To Buy Cover For A Holiday In Britain?

Word Count:

607

Summary:

Last week my wife and I booked a seven day holiday in Tobermory on the wonderful Isle of Mull.

You could have knocked me down with a feather when the travel agent assumed that I wanted travel

Keywords:

travel, insurance, uk

Article Body:

Last week my wife and I booked a seven day holiday in Tobermory on the wonderful Isle of Mull.

You could have knocked me down with a feather when the travel agent assumed that I wanted travel

Later in the comfortable setting of my lounge I got to thinking .

Holiday disasters don't only happen abroad. So I made a list of the risks:

One of us could be taken ill before we depart and we'd be forced to cancel. As the ferries and

My parents are getting on. God forbid, but I'd have to cancel the holiday if something happened

My wife or I might be called up for jury service.

There may be a major delay at the ferry. Besides the inconvenience, we have to arrange an over

Someone might steal our luggage

I've just bought an all singing and dancing camera especially for the trip. I might lose it.

If either of us were hospitalised we wouldn't want to be stuck on Mull. We'd want to be transf

Then it struck me that my Home & Contents insurance would probably cover me for loss of luggage

Another point struck me. If I made a holiday related claim on my Home & Contents policy I'd lo

By now £27.50 for a travel policy was beginning to look worthwhile.

But you'll realise I'm a bit of an old skin flint ~ at least my wife says so! I know, get onli

Not all the sites I visited could offer me single holiday insurance within the UK but within t

Time to read the small print to make sure I truly had the cover I needed. Great, all the risks

Now check out the exclusions - what wouldn't they pay for? I wasn't covered if my holiday was

The decision was made. Key in my credit card details and CLICK I was insured. Peace of mind re

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>
Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>