

Title:

Traveller's Journal: Snowdonia National Park - Day 5

Word Count:

377

Summary:

If there was one thing I had noticed from my travels around Wales it was the extensive use of

But one thing was for sure. No one could deny the natural beauty of their country and the warm

Keywords:

Article Body:

If there was one thing I had noticed from my travels around Wales it was the extensive use of

But one thing was for sure. No one could deny the natural beauty of their country and the warm

Another great aspect of the valley roads was the low volume of traffic. This was the Easter Ba

Betws-y-Coed is a quaint little village just within the boundaries of Snowdonia National Park

I decided to take advantage of this retail war and buy some new walking boots. After parking o

The big sale signs outside one store looked promising so I ventured in and soon found myself a

The therapy however, only lasts for as long as you are left alone and out of the corner of my

"The Ordnance Survey provides great detail in a 1:50000 scale as well as being weatherproof i

"Great," I replied, struggling to find any enthusiasm. "Where are the boots?"

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>