

Title:

History of Gas Scooters

Word Count:

595

Summary:

Gas scooters have come a long way over the past 50 years. They are functional, fun, convenient

Keywords:

gas scooters, scooter, electric, motor, powered, motorized, vespa, razor, mobility

Article Body:

The first patents for scooters go back as far as 1921. The Razor scooter was later developed b

Even before 1950 there were as many as 110,000 scooters on the road in Italy alone. It has bee

From 1950 to 1958 Vespa sold over 125,000 of their gas powered scooters in the UK. Why the gre

It didn't take long for the Italian models (the Piaggio from Vespa and the Lambretta from Inno

Other countries wanted to profit from the newest craze and tried to climb on the band wagon. W

Tourist Scooters Manufacturers in Germany built some very strong and powerful versions and wen

Vespa began marketing a couple of very popular gas powered scooters from Piaggio, the GS 125cc

France's Roussey Scooters tried to one-up the Italian competition by coming out with a 175cc m

As these wonderful vehicles have evolved over the years they have become increasingly more pop

The electric types are often used by kids and teens, but are also popular with the elderly and

This is a demo version of txt2pdf v.10.1

Developed by SANFACE Software <http://www.sanface.com/>

Available at <http://www.sanface.com/txt2pdf.html>